PRESS RELEASE

CANAL+ has taken note of the decisions rendered by the Paris Court of Appeal in the legal disputes opposing it to the LFP and LFP Media, as well as the statement issued by these entities, which appear to suggest that an operator claiming discrimination acts abusively when seeking to assert its rights before the courts. This is not the position of the Paris Court of Appeal, which dismissed the LFP and LFP Media's claim alleging abusive proceedings.

CANAL+ has consistently confined itself to defending its interests and those of its subscribers. This is a legitimate course of action given the substantial financial harm it has incurred. The CANAL+ Group will examine the available avenues of appeal in order to continue asserting its rights.
